

I think the "Do Not Call Law" in NJ should remain in affect. Some people work nights and don't want to be disturbed during the day when they are resting. Other people who are old, sick, or disabled should not have to answer the phone to listen to a sales pitch. Some of the callers are rude and obnoxious, or they call during dinner time or late at night and no one should have to be subject to that in their own homes.